Section IV: The Emerging Record: Success Stories of Private Sector Leadership and Action

This section presents a more detailed view of what is possible in public-private partnerships through several case studies and success stories. The examples provided here describe elements important for the success of private sector participation in sustainable development. The most consistent message throughout this section is that the best results of private sector contributions are in situations where there are strong partnerships between the private and public sectors.